Climate KIC Investment Innovation Lead Ben Honan

Ben Honan is the investment lead for Climate KIC, Europe's climate innovation agency and community.

Focusing on financial innovation, Ben and the team have now made more than 100 seed stage investments in cleantech start-ups across Europe and are in the process of launching three new VC funds this year on deep tech, circular economy and carbon removals. Drawing upon his own first-hand experience of natural disasters in Australia, Ben has a passion for using innovation as a way to enable decision makers to take action in the messy middle where the options aren't clear and the future is deeply uncertain.
